Summary of Meeting Between (Ilan Foundation)
and (Harzfeld School)

The meeting took place on November 9, 1995. Topic of discussion: Results of experimental use of the ADELI Therapeutic Suit; Pilot project conducted in Israel between October 18, 1995, and November 9, 1995, in The Harzfeld School for Cerebral Palsy Children-Holon, Israel.

- 1)    a. Treatment was implemented by professional staff from Russia using the ADELI Therapeutic Suit.

      b. Israeli staff chose 7 children suffering from C.P.; ages 4-18.

- 2)    Based on evaluation before and after treatment, staff and parent assessment; it may be concluded that:
  - a.    In all cases, positive change and improvement occurred in motor functions and movement, as well as emotional capacities.
  - b.    In no case was deterioration noted. No negative results or medical occurrences were noted. Therefore, ADELI Treatments can be assumed to be safe.
  - c.    Range of change was directly related to type and severeness of C.P.
  - d.    Traditional physiotherapy intervention did not obtain similar results in the past.
  - e.    All cases and their parents requested to continue treatments.
  - f.    Positive results and improvements were noted in all the cases. Regression was not perceived.
